2018 OCAH Affordable Housing Conference Sponsor

The Oklahoma Housing Finance Agency announced they will now require both Developers and Management to complete training in Fair Housing Accessibility design and construction prior to application submission in 2019. Meeting accessibility requirements is important for both funding and the lives of the individuals that will someday call these developments home.

As the Architect of Record on over 460 senior housing and multi-family developments, Wallace Architects, LLC is committed to ensuring the accessibility of the developments they design. As a show of support, Wallace Architects sponsored the Developer portion of the required training at the recent 2018 OCAH Affordable Housing Conference. Randy Porter, Architect for Wallace, presented the panelists during the Required Fair Housing, ADA & Section 504 Training for Developers, Architects and Contractors session.

Mark English, one of the nation's leading accessibility training specialists, and Scott Moore, an experienced prosecutor of Fair Housing cases, presented during the training session. During this day long course, Architects, Contractors and Developers were able to complete the required training for the 2019 LIHTC application.

Our Family Values

The foundation of Wallace Architects has always been family values. Our founder, Kurt Wallace, instilled in Wallace the family environment and culture that is still vibrant today. And with the addition of each new team member comes a deeper collective experience and an expanded set of values.

The most recent addition to the Wallace family is Clayton McClallen, son to Ashley and Blake McClallen, born November 20th. The McClallen family have worked for Wallace Architects and their sister company, Econsultants, LLC, for many years. While some say their coworkers are like family, the McClallen's actually mean it.

"I had heard the term "work family" but never fully understood the true meaning of this until I started working at Wallace," explained Ashley. "Just like in a family, the employees at Wallace support, respect and care for one another. We all work well together."

Ashley McClallen started at Wallace in 2015 as part of the Admin Team. Her husband, Blake, works for Drew Wallace at Econsultants as a Project Manager. And most recently, her father-in-law, Dave McClallen has joined Wallace as a Project Coordinator. We have big hopes for Clayton to follow in his parent's footsteps and someday join the Wallace team.
